Spotlight: Jason

Jason has struggled with bouts of homelessness throughout his life. "I wasn't motivated," Jason says. "I was wasting my money, and I was holding myself back." Last year, Jason's apartment would not renew his lease, and he struggled to meet the requirement of most complexes to earn three times the rent in a month. Jason was sleeping on the floor of his restaurant job before a friend brought him to Our House. Jason was able to work in our guard shack and graduated from the job training program in September. When it was time to look for employment outside of Our House, Jason was the first one in the computer lab in the mornings and the last one to return from job search in the evenings. Jason now has full-time employment as a cook, and he is putting his hard-earned money and budgeting classes to good use by buying his first car! Jason is now working on rebuilding his savings after his purchase to prepare for a future down payment. "I've accomplished more in the last six months than I ever have accomplished before," Jason says. "I've learned a lot of patience. I learned that the only thing holding me back from success was myself."
